CHAPTER III

THE CARY FAMILY

(Taken from the records of the family written by John Jaquelin Ambler, of Glen Ambler, Va., and his nephew, Dr. James D. Moncre, of Williamsburg, Va.)

COCKINGTON

The following account of Cockington, the old family seat of the Carys in the County of Devon, is extracted from a work written about the commencement of the seventeenth century, found in the London Institution, having for its title: "Collections towards a Description of the County of Devon," by Sir William Pole, of Colcombe and Shute, Knight, who died A.D. 1635. Printed in London by J. Nicholas, anno MDCCXCI.

From the autograph in the possession of the lineal descendant of Sir William Pole, Sir John William de la Pole, Baronet of Shute in Devonshire, copied at the Library of the London Institution on the 10th December, 1825, by J. J. Ambler.

Cockington was given by Robert Fitzmartin, Lord of Bertington, unto his youngest son, Roger, on condition that his posterity "tooke thei'r name of thei'r dwellings. Roger de Cockington succeeded hyme in King Henry II tyme."

The following is copied from the British Museum, Nov. 7th, 1825, by John Jaquelin Ambler:

Roger de Cockington had issue:

Sir Roger, unto whom succeeded,

Sir Roger, unto him:

Sir James Cockington, being the last of that name, and dyed about the beginning of the reign of King Edward III, without issue.

After hyme, Sir Walter de Woodland had Cockington; he was usher of the chamber of Black Prince, and knighted by hyme Anno 24 of King Edward III, at what tyme the said Prince gave unto hym the manors of Mokesby, Tywornell, and Penmagne in Cornwall, and promyske unto hym a hundred marks for ye mayntenance of his estate. This grant was dated ye 26 of April, Anno 24, King Edward III. He married Katherine, daughter of coheire of William Polers, but died without issue; and his wife had Cockington for her inheritance.

Robert Cary, sonne of Sir John Cary, had Cockington in King Henry IV tyme; he married Margaret, daughter of Sir Philip Courteney, of Poderham, and had issue:

Philip, which by Thomasine, one of ye daughters of William Orchard of Orchard, nere Taunton, had issue:

William Cary of Cockington, by first wife Anne, daughter of Sir William Powlet, had issue:

Robert Cary.

His second wife, Alice, daughter of Sir Baldwin Fulford, and had issue: Thomas Cary, from whom are described the families of Cary in this part of England.

Robert Cary of Cockington first married daughter of Sir Niclas Carew, and had issue:

I. John Cary

II. Thomas Cary of Cockington.

His second wife was Agnes, daughter of Sir William Holey, and had issue:

William Pokeney of Dartmouth.
Robert Cary.

Ligorg

Thomas Cary of Cockington, second sonne of Robert Cary, by his first wife, married Mary of Southcot of Indeho, and had issue:

I. Sir George Cary of Cockington.

II. Robert Cary.

III. John Gregory Cary.

IV. Arthur Cary.

Sir George Cary of Cockington had first married Wilmot, daughter and heiress of John Siffard of Xeo, the divorced wife of John Byry of Colaton, and had issue:

George Cary, which dyed without issue.

His second wife was Luce, daughter of Robert, Lord Rich, Earl of Warwick, but what issue there was I cannot write. He adopted George Cary, third sonne of his brother Robert, unto whom he gave Cockington.

George Cary married Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir William Leanson, of Byry Pomeroy Baronet, and had issue.

"Baronage of England, etc." by William Dugdale Harvov, King of Arms: printed 1615.

LORD HINSDON CARY (I Elizabeth.)

Of the family (anciently seated at Cockington in Devonshire) was the same William Cary, who being in the battle of Tewkesbury in the tenth year of Edward IV, on which part of the Lancastrians, upon the loss of that day was taken in church, whereunto, with others, he fled for sanctuary and, notwithstanding promises of pardon, lost his head.

This William Cary had two wives: first, Anne, the daughter of Sir William Pavlet, knight, from whom those of Cockington did descend; second, Alice, the daughter of Sir Baldwin Pulford, knight, by whom he had issue:

I. Thomas Cary, and he had issue:

IX. Sir John Cary, knight.

IX. William Cary.

Sir John Cary, knight, by _____, his wife, sister of Sir Anthony Lenny, knight, left issue:

I. Sir Edward Cary, knight,

Sir Henry _____, knight, who by Katherine, his wife, daughter of

I. Henry Cary,

knight, and widow of Henry Lord Paget, had issue:

of Ireland; which Henry Cary departed this life in 1633, left issue by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and heiress to Sir Lawrence Tanfield, knight, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer Lucius Cary, his son and heir, who married Lettie, the daughter of Richard Morrison, of Tooly Park in County Leicester, whose great-grandson, being the only one of his father, emigrated to Virginia according to the traditions of the family, and was the father of Colonel Wilson Miles Cary, of Williamsburg (and sometimes of Cary's Brook), Virginia, and of Miss Mary Cary, who married Edward Ambler, Esq., of James Town, consequently this Lucius Cary is the progenitor of the Ambler family now in Virginia (1825).

(We think all this is a mistake.--J.D. Moncre and Louise Pecquet du Bellet.)

Lucius Cary, being a person eminently learned, was made choice of by the late King Charles of blessed memory, for one of his principal Secretaries of State. Shortly after which, out of the great zeal to his Majesty's service in the rebellious times, adventuring himself in the battle of Newberry, 20th September, anno 1643, he then lost his life.

The younger branch of the family was more happy, the history of which the same old chronicle gives in these words. Having said thus much touching the descendants of Sir John Cary, the eldest son of Thomas, I now come to William Cary, his second son.

This William Cary, being Esquire of the body of King Henry the Eighth, took to wife Mary, daughter of Thomas Bullen (sometimes spelled Boleyn), Earl of Wiltshire (sister of the Lady Anne, second wife of King Henry the Eighth), by whom he had one son:

I. Henry Cary.

II. Catherine Cary, a daughter, married Sir Francis Knolles, Knight of the Garter and died of the sweating sickness in anno 1528, being then of the bed chamber of that King.

Henry Cary (his son), in regard to his near alliance to Queen Elizabeth (being her mother's sister's son), was knighted soon after her coming to the crown, and upon the 13th of January next following, advanced to the dignity of a baron of the realm, upon the 25th of the same month accordingly. Later Queen Elizabeth sent him with the order of the garter to the King of France, then at Lyons. And in 10 Elizabeth, being made Governor of the town and castle of Barwick, upon that insurrection of the Earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland (which happened shortly after), marched there and had a skirmish with them at the river belt, being then General of the Horse; nevertheless, they got from him into Scotland whereupon he prevailed with the Queen to proclama pardon to all those, whom they had drawn unto them, in that desperate adventure.. And in the next ensuing year accompanied the Earl of Sussex in making divers inroads into that realm (the North). Also about two years after (being still Governor of Barwick), having by promise of money to some of the Scots got the Earl of Northumberland into his hands, he sent him to York, where he was shortly after beheaded.

In anno 1582 (25th of Elizabeth's reign), upon the return of the Duke of Anjou, who had stayed here three months, as a suitor to Queen Elizabeth (with some other of the nobility), he attended him to Antwerp by Her Majesty's command, and in 29 Marches toward Scotland, as (also about that time) Lord Chamberlain of the Queen's household. In 30 of Elizabeth's reign, upon putting the Queen of Scots* *(Note. There is a ring in the possession of John Ambler Brooke, said to have been sent or taken by a Cary, to announce to the Regent Murray of Scotland, as a token announcing that Mary, Queen of Scotland's death warrant had been signed by Elizabeth. (This ring was made into a mourning ring for John Ambler, first) to death in England (continuing at Barwick), he was employed unto King James, her son, to pacify him therein and in anno 1592 (35 Elizabeth), upon the charge laid to Sir Thomas Perrot, Deputy of Ireland, was one of the commissioners assigned to consider thereof. He was also Captain of the Pensioners and Knight of the most noble order of the Garter, and having married Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Morgan, Knight, by her had issue, four sons and three daughters:

- I. George Cary.
- II. John Cary.
- III. Sir Edward Cary, Knight.
- IV. Robert Cary, afterwards Earl of Monmouth.
- V. Catherine Cary, Married Charles, Earl of Nottingham.
- VI. Philadelphia Cary, Married Thomas, Lord Scrope.
- VII. Margaret Cary. Married Sir Edward Hoby, Knight.

Henry Cary, Lord Hunsdon, departed this life upon the 23rd of July, anno 1596 (38 of Elizabeth), being then seventy-one years old. He was buried in the Chapel of St. John Baptist, within the Collegiate Church of St. Peter at Westminster, where there is a noble monument erected to his memory.

To whom succeeded George Cary, his eldest son, who being also Knight of the most noble order of the Garter, Governor of the Isle of Wight, Lord Chamberlain of the Queen's household and one of her privy council, departed this life, September 9, 1603 (1 James), leaving issue by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir John Spencer, of Althrope in com. North, Knight, one sole daughter and heir:

- I. Elizabeth. Married Sir Thomas Berkley.

Whereupon John Cary, his next brother and heir, male, succeeded him in the honor. Which John, during his brother's life, sell. in by the title of "Lord Hunsdon" and took his place in Parliament.

43 Elizabeth was constituted Warden of the East Marches towards Scotland, being then a knight, and departed this life April---, 1617 (15 James), left issue by Mary, his wife, daughter of Leonard Hyde of Shroeklin in com., Hert., Esquire, two sons and two daughters:

- I. Henry Cary
- II. Charles Cary.
- III. Anne Cary. Married Sir Francis Lovell, of East Harling, in County of Norf., knight.
- IV. Blanche Cary. Married Sir Thomas Woodhouse, of Kimberley, in the same County, knight.

Which Henry Cary, succeeded as Lord Hunsdon, was advanced to the dignity of Viscount Rockford 6th July (9 James). Likewise to the title of the Earl of Dover, and having married Judith, the daughter of Sir Thomas Pelham, of Lofton, in County Suffolk, Baronet, by whom he had three sons and three daughters:

- I. John Cary, made knight of the Bath, at the Coronation of Charles I.
- II. Pelham Cary, who died without issue.
- III. George Cary.
- IV. Mary Cary. Married Sir Thomas Wharton, knight of the Bath, brother of Lord Wharton.
- V. Judith Cary, died unmarried.
- VI. Philadelphia, departed this life, anno 1668.

John Cary succeeded to his father, Henry Cary, and was his heir. He married, first, Dorothy, daughter to Oliver, Earl of Bolingbroke, and by her had no issue; second, Abigail, daughter of Sir William Cokain, knight, Alderman of the City of London, by whom he had issue, only one daughter:

- I. Mary Cary. Married William Reveringham of ---- in County --- Esq.

Having finished with the elder branch, I lastly come to Robert, third son of the first Henry, Lord Hunsdon, in 40 of Elizabeth. This Robert, being then a knight, was made Warden of the Marches towards Scotland and in (19 of James) 6th February, was created Lord Cary of Lexington, in County Dorset, also Earl of Monmouth, and departing this life at Moor Park in Hertfordshire 18th April anno 1659, left issue by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir Hugh Trevelian, of Caerthelgh in County ---, knight. Issue:

- I. Henry Cary, made knight of the Bath in 1616, at the creation of Charles, Prince of Wales.
- II. Thomas Cary.

The only daughter and heir of Thomas Cary married John Mordaunt, Earl of Peterborough, and their eldest son, Charles the third Earl, was created Earl of Monmouth and afterwards Earl of Denbigh.

Robert Cary had one daughter, Philadelphia, married to Sir Thomas Wharton, knight, son and heir to Lord Wharton. Which Sir Henry succeeded him in his honors. Married Martha, eldest daughter of Lionel, Earl of Middlesex, by whom he had issue, two sons and eight daughters:

- I. Lionel Cary.
- II. Henry Cary. Both died in their father's lifetime without issue.
- III. Anne Cary. Married James Hamilton, Viscount Clave by and Earl of ---
- IV. Philadelphia Cary, died single.
- V. Elizabeth Cary.
- VI. Mary Cary, wedded to William, Earl of Desmond.
- VII. Treveliana Cary, died unmarried.
- VIII. Martha Cary. Married John, Earl of Middleton, in Scotland.
- IX. ^{Theophila} Magdalena Cary, died single.

Sir Henry Cary died June 15, anno 1661, and was buried at Rickmansworth in Hertfordshire. (Historical Description of Westminster Abbey, published 1824. Appendix, p. 20 of MS.)

In the chapel of St. Edmunds there is a monument: "To the knight Honourable, the Lady Katherine Knollys, chief lady of the bed chamber of Queen Elizabeth and wife of Sir Francis Knollys, Knight, treasurer of the household. She died January 15th, 1568." This Lady Knollys and Lord Hunsdon, her brother, were the only children of William Cary, Esq., by the Lady Mary, his wife, one of the daughters and heirs of Thomas Bulleyn, Earl of Wiltshire and Ormond, the sister to Anne Bulleyn, Queen of England, wife to Henry VIII, father and mother to Queen Elizabeth. What is remarkable, Lady Knollys' only daughter was mother to the favorite Earl of Essex.

The following is taken from "Extinct Peerage of England," etc., by the late Solomon Bolton, etc.:

HUNSDON

The ancestors of this family took their name from Castle Carey, in Somersetshire, anciently written Karey, a Lordship in their possession.

(Nottingham, p. 325, Volume I.)

Charles, second Lord Roffingham, was constituted by Queen Elizabeth, April 24, 1574, Lord Chamberlain of Her Majesty's household, and in 1585 Lord High Admiral of England, Ireland and Aquitaine. He was commander-in-chief of the fleet by which the Spanish Armada was defeated, in the year 1588, and of another squadron which sailed against Cadiz, in the year 1595, having on board a number of land forces under the command of Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex. He was created on the 22nd of October in that year Earl of the County of Nottingham, and was a principal leader of the party that effected the ruin of the gallant Earl of Essex.

It was his countess, Catherine, daughter of Henry Cary, Lord Hunsdon, to whom that unsuspecting nobleman is said to have delivered the ring that had been given him by Queen Elizabeth, as a pledge of her perpetual favour.

This ring was intended, by the Earl, then under sentence of death, to be carried to the Queen, accompanied by a request of Her Majesty's pardon, but was concealed from political motives by the Countess of Nottingham, at the instigation of her husband. She is said to have confessed the suppression, with great penitence, upon her death bed, to Queen Elizabeth, who furiously shook the dying countess, exclaiming: "God may forgive you but I never can," and who from that time was seized with a melancholy and despair that put an end to her life.

Lord Nottingham's issue by this marriage was:

I. Charles, second Earl of Nottingham.

By a second wife he had issue:

II. Charles, third Earl of Nottingham, upon whose death the 26th of April, 1681, the title became extinct.

John Jaquelin Ambler has several more extracts from other books and authors, but they were mere repetitions of the above with slight variation in the wives' names and in spelling them, when they are the same, so I did not copy them.

ARMORIAL BEARINGS

In the armorial drawings have been found the armorial bearings of England and France, from whom are descended those branches of the Cary and Jaquelin families who have intermarried with the present Ambler family of Virginia and whose arms Col. John Ambler and his descendants are entitled to bear, quartered with the Ambler arms, by the laws of heraldry. The whole has been carefully and accurately marshaled and blazoned by a person intimately acquainted with the signs of heraldry.

WILSON CARY OF "CEELYS" AND HIS FAMILY

(Compiled by Wilson Miles Cary, of Baltimore, Md., with extracts from Virginia Historical Magazine, Vol. IX, No. 1, July, 1901, and a few notes from Goode's "Virginia Cousins.")

In 1868, I (Wilson Miles Cary) made a horseback trip to the Peninsula of Virginia and travelled over all that section of country, with the purpose, if possible, of reconstructing the genealogy of my family, which, as embodied in a fine old vellum record, had been destroyed, together with the family Bible, etc., etc., at the burning of our Fluvanna residence. Carysbrooke, November 26, 1826. In the clerk's office at Hampton, I found not only the original will of Col. Wilson Cary, of which I already had obtained a copy in 1866, but that of his brother Miles Cary, of "Ceelys," as he styles himself, and which I then transcribed.

The then clerk of the court offered to permit me to appropriate both of these wills, but I considered such a pillaging of the public archives as indefensible in me (though a direct descendant of the testator) as it was in the Yankees, whom we have so deservedly castigated ever since the war of their wholesale pilfering.

I rode to "Ceelys," on the banks of the James, three or four miles from Hampton, to visit the mansion so long the residence of my ancestors. The whole estate, containing some two thousand acres in Colonel Cary's time, lay along the river and adjoined the present Newport News. It was then occupied by a settlement of negro squatters, a section of "Butler's Contrabands." There was scarce a vestige of the old mansion remaining -- the very foundations were obliterated -- not a tree left standing, and the garden which once ran in terraces to the river's edge, now a wilderness of weeds. I found the dispossessed proprietor, a young Mr. Smith, quartered in a most primitive shanty, on the edge of the estate, almost despairing over enforcing his rights and ejecting the darkies, but still awaiting with what patience he might the outrageous dilatory proceedings of the reconstruction period. Mr. Smith informed me that the negroes, after burning the fine old brick mansion to the ground, had entirely dismantled its walls, using them for the chimneys of their hovels. The original building was of large dimensions, two stories, with wings. Its age had been discovered by his father, who, on removing the portico to make some repairs, had found the figures 1706 on the lintel. The records of Elizabeth City inform us that the nucleus of the estate called "Ceelys" consisted of two tracts of two hundred and fifty acres each, at the mouth of Saltford Creek, on the banks of James River, which were acquired by Colonel William Wilson in 1691 and 1695 from one Thomas Ceely -- who represented Warwick County in the House of Burgesses, from 1629 to 1639. Colonel Wilson was for many years the presiding justice and most prominent personage of Elizabeth City County, being long the royal Naval Officer of the lower James, and a very wealthy planter. He it was who built "Ceelys" in 1706. He died in 1713, but his will was doubtless recorded in the General Court, whose archives were destroyed in the conflagration of 1865, so that a detailed disposition of his large estate can not now be had. His only son, Captain Willis, had died without issue in 1701. His daughter Mary (1675-1741) had first married William Roscon, with whom she was buried under a handsome monument at Blunt Point, in Warwick. After his death, which occurred November 27, 1700, she did not long remain in weeds, but in April, 1702, commiserating the equally sad lot of a near neighbor, she bestowed her hand upon Colonel Miles Cary, of "Richneck," who had been bereaved at the same time, his wife, Mary Milner, having left him, "issueless," as her tombstone states, October 27, 1700. And just here, there is a romantic episode, which I intend writing up, growing out of the frantic proceedings of one Captain James Woody, of her Majesty's men-of-war, Southampton, who madly, though a married man, contested the hand of the fair widow, with Colonel Cary. The latter, having the inside track, treated the would-be bigamist with contempt, and so overwhelmed him with ridicule, that in a bloody rage he sailed around to Yorktown, where the Governor and Court were in session, and despite the Governor's threat of frown, undertook to post Colonel Cary. The Governor and Council took down the proceedings and promptly complained of his outrageous conduct to the home government, and the reckless villain was forthwith removed to appease the indignation of the entire colony.

Col. Miles Cary died intestate, but from his tomb we learn the names of his children.

To the younger of his two sons, Miles, his grandfather Wilson's estate of "Ceelys" descended, while he, dying a bachelor in 1756, willed it to his only brother Colonel Wilson Cary, of "Richneck." The latter, however, must have inherited lands in Elizabeth City, from his grandfather, as in 1751 (see Palmer's State Papers, I, 247) he was lieutenant of the county. He undoubtedly became a resident of the country from the date of his appointment in 1726, to the lucrative post of Naval Officer of the lower James, which he held for thirty-five years or more. His paternal estate of "Richneck," over four thousand acres, lay in the County of Warwick, some twenty miles from Hampton and about three from the Court House.

While I visited it in 1868 the mansion was a pile of ruins, through from the remains of the walls still standing I could estimate its former extent. It was a long-fronted, two-storied brick building, with the usual adjacent out-houses, and must have been very commodious. The tradition that I gathered from some of the oldest inhabitants at the Court House was that the house of Burgesses had sat there several times (sessions), after the burning of the State edifices at Jamestown, and before the completion of the capitol at Williamsburg. These gentlemen informed me that the mansion had been wantonly destroyed after the cessation of hostilities in 1865 by the troops of General French on returning from that section of Virginia.

Col. Wilson Cary was born about 1703; the exact date cannot now be ascertained, owing to the destruction of the family archives at Carys-brooke. This is shown by an autograph inscription to that effect on the title pages of a number of the books of his once extensive library, about two hundred and fifty volumes of which I still possess. I was in England in 1867, and on one occasion had the pleasure of dining in Trinity Hall with the dons, and the librarian, Mr. W. Aldis Wright, kindly made me the following extract from the College admission books, viz:

June 30, 1721, Admissus Wilson Cary; pons, an. nat. 18, filius de Miles Cary, de Virginia in India Occidentale, e Collegio Gulielmo et Mariae in eadem terra. His marriage occurred before January 20, 1728-9, as is shown by a York County deed made at that date between Wilson Cary of the County of Elizabeth City, Gent., and William Nelson, of York County, Merchant, "Cary conveying lots twelve and eighteen in the town of York, "formerly sold and conveyed by the trustees of the town land unto Miles Cary, of the County of Warwick, Gent., father of the said Wilson Cary, etc., etc., and free from all right of dower of Mary, late relict of the aforesaid Miles Cary, Gent., deceased, and of Sarah, now the wife of the said Wilson Cary, if she should happen to survive.

Now this lady did happen to survive until 1783, when she died between the first and sixth day of September, as I learn from a letter of Edmund Randolph (who married her granddaughter) to Bryan Fairfax (her son-in-law). But her maiden name has eluded all my efforts to ascertain it. I am, however, very strongly inclined to the conclusion that she was a seton of the long extinct family of Fate, of Gloucester. Richard Pate had patented as early as 1650 one thousand one hundred and forty acres on Poropotank Creek, and was Burgess of Gloucester in 1653. Administration on his estate was granted to his nephew, John Pate, in 1657. This young John Pate, Henning records as added to the commission of Gloucester, in 1660 (II, 15), and the only extant volume of the General Court proceedings shows that he was "admitted and sworn one of ye Council of State of this Colony, November 20, 1671." In this volume it is further stated that at a court held November 8, 1672, "Col. J. John Fate, Esquire, dying possess of a considerable estate in this country left a widow out of this country, and Mr. Thomas Pate, brother's son to the said Fate, deceased, appears and petitions for administration on his said Uncle's estate, which is accordingly granted him," whereupon the said Pate furnished such securities Major Richard Lee and Captain John Armistead. This was the Major Thomas Fate, of Petersburg Parish, Gloucester, at whose house Nathaniel Bacon, the rebel, died in October 1676, being buried in the bed of Poropotank to prevent Berkeley from hanging his corpse on the gibbet. The records of Gloucester having been destroyed in 1820, it is difficult to trace the descendants of this family, but Major Thomas Pate seems to have left at least two sons, John and Matthew. In 1715, One John Wills patents one hundred and thirty acres in Gloucester, bounded by the main creek of Poropotank, adjoining a tract devised to said Wills by "Mr. John Fate," in his last will.

This John Pate is possibly the father of Mrs. Wilson Cary. I have in my library several volumes bearing the autograph "John Fate, 1706," on the title page above that of Colonel Wilson Cary (possibly his son-in-law), and to increase the probabilities, I would add, that I have also a volume showing in like manner the signature of Colonel Thomas Milner, and beneath it that of his son-in-law, Colonel Miles Cary. Now Colonel Wilson Cary in his will devises to his son lands lying on both sides of Poropotank, in the counties of Gloucester and King and Queen. These Gloucester lands, it is true, may have been subsequent purchases, and thus my theory that Colonel Cary acquired them through marriage might be untenable, still there is nothing to show that Miles Cary may not have been induced to invest in these very lands by the fact of his elder brother already having acquired property in Gloucester by marriage. However this may be, there certainly had been intermarriages between the Cary, Pate and Wills families.

Mr. Miles Cary Wills was the general manager of the Carysbrook estate.

Col. Wilson Cary had issue by this unknown wife, Sarah, four daughters and one son. These will be given later.

Colonel Cary names as one of his executors my kinsman, Richard Cary, of Warwick, afterwards Judge of Admiralty, and of the General Court, who was born about 1730 and died November 13, 1789, and more than once had represented Warwick in the House of Burgesses. He had been bred to his profession in the school of the County Clerk's office, he himself, his father and his grandfather before him having succeeded one another almost as hereditary clerks of Warwick ever since the latter end of the seventeenth century. He was a cousin of the testator, but many degrees removed, being the second son of Major Miles Cary, of "Peartree Hall," by Hannah Armistead, and the grandson of Mr. Miles Cary, Jr.," as he is styled in the records, by Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Cooke. This latter Miles is mentioned by the Quaker story, who visited Warwick in 1699 and 1706, as Secretary of the county, who, with his brother, Thomas, had become converts. They were undoubtedly the sons of Major Thomas Cary (1647-80), uncle of Colonel Wilson Cary, of "Ceelys."

Wilson Miles Cary, of Baltimore, sent these items, taken from his Cary Genealogy, to Mr. Stanard, thinking possibly that he might wish to make some comments upon the various parties mentioned in the will. His Cary material is very voluminous. He could give Mr. Stanard, if he desired it, some comments upon the various parties mentioned in his will. His Cary material is very voluminous. He could give Mr. Stanard, if he desired it, some articles on the Virginia Fairfax family. I suppose -- in fact, I know -- there is no one so accurately posted on its Genealogy as Mr. Cary.

Below are appended an abstract of the will of Miles Cary and a copy of the will of his brother, Wilson Cary, both of which are on record in Elizabeth City County:

Will of Miles Cary, of Ceelys, Elizabeth City County, body to be buried in Rich-Neck. Legacies to Mary Seldon, Nephew Cary Seldon, brother Wilson Cary, nephew Samuel Seldon, nephew Miles Seldon, niece Sarah Fairfax, niece Cary Cary, Niece Ann Nichols, niece Elizabeth Cary, nephew Wilson Miles Cary, brother Wilson Cary. Among other things land "bought of my brother, William Roscow, deceased," gives money to buy land for James Roscow, son of said William, to Nephew Wilson Roscow. Dated October 11, 1752; no date of probate.

CHAPTER IV

THE CARY FAMILY IN ENGLAND

Gualter de Boullyn was a vassal kinsman of the Lord of Brle in 1344. When Sir Thomas Boleyn in 1514 left France after the affiancement of the Princess Mary Tudor to Louis XII of France (the espousals having taken place on August 13, 1514, and the nuptials October 19, 1514), he placed his daughter Anne (born 1499 or 1501), who had been an assistant at the nuptials in a convent in the village of Brle under the special care of his "friend and kinsman" Du Moulin, Lord of Brle and Fontenaye.

The family of Boleyn, Bullen, Boullyn as it was variously spelled, is of French origin and first settled in Norfolk, England.

Thomas Boleyn, d. 1411, progenitor of Anne and Mary, was a younger brother of the statesman. He married Anna, daughter of Sir John Braxton, and bound his eldest son, Godfrey Boleyn, as an apprentice to a Mercer. He was "Master of the Mercers Company," in 1424, Sheriff of London during the wars of the Roses, Lord Mayor of London in 1457 and died in 1471. He married Anne, daughter of the Lord of Hoo and Hastings.

Sir William Boleyn, eldest son, was made Knight of the Bath by Richard III. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Butler, last Earl of Ormond, which title was preserved in the person of his son. Sir Thomas Boleyn, who married the Lady Elizabeth Howard, daughter of the renowned Earl of Surrey, afterwards Duke of Norfolk, by his first wife, Margaret Tylney. The brother of Lady Elizabeth Howard, Lord Thomas Howard, married the Lady Anne Plantagenet, sister of Henry VII's queen.

Anne Boleyn, mother of Queen Elizabeth, was the eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Boleyn and Elizabeth Howard. She was born about 1501 or previously.

Mary Boleyn, sister of Anne, married Sir William Cary, in February 1521.

Lady Elizabeth Howard Boleyn d. 1512, and Henry VIII, on June 8, 1525, advanced the father of Anne and Mary, Sir William Boleyn, to the dignity of Baron Rochefort. He made him treasurer of the Royal Household. He was also made William Cary, husband of Mary, a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber. Sir William Cary d. 1526.

George Boleyn, b. about 1500, brother of Anne and Mary and son of Sir Thomas, was created Viscount Rochefort and Baron Hunsdon. He was Governor of the Cinque Ports and Dover, and was several times a special ambassador to France. He was executed for high treason by King Henry VIII.

Sir William Cary and Mary Boleyn had two sons and a daughter:

I. Henry Cary, Baron Hunsford under Queen Elizabeth.

II. Catherine, Cary, Married Charles Howard, Lord High Admiral of England, Earl of Nottingham.

III. Robert Cary, Knight, took to James of Scotland the announcement of the execution of Queen Mary, of Scotland, in a letter from Queen Elizabeth.

The father of Sir William Cary (who married Mary Boleyn), was Sir William Cary, Knight of Cockington. Married, first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Paulet, and had a son.

I. Sir Robert Cary, of Cockington, ancestor of the Carys of Torr

Abbey, in Devonshire.

Sir William Cary Married, second, Alice, a daughter of Sir Baldwin Fulford, Knight of Fulford, and had a son, Thomas Cary, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Spencer by Eleanor, his wife, who was the daughter of Edmund Beaufort, Duke of Somerset. This Thomas Cary and Margaret Spencer had two sons:

I. Sir John Cary.

II. Sir William Cary, who married Mary Boleyn, sister of Queen Anne Boleyn, and who were ancestors of Cary, Lord Hunsdon and Earls of Devon and Earls of Monmouth.

The eldest brother, Sir John Cary, married Joyce, sister of Sir Anthony Denny, Knight, and left issue:

I. Sir Edward Cary.

II. Catherine Cary. Married James II, Earl of Horne.

III. Victoria Cary. Married, first, Sir William Uvedale, second, Bartholomew Price, of Llanthgow.

IV. Anne Cary.

- V. Elizabeth Cary.
- VI. Lucy Villars Cary.
- VII. Mary Cary.

These four young ladies became Benedictine nuns of Chambray. The eldest son, Sir Edward Cary, Knight of Beckenhamstead, Master of the Jewel Office to Elizabeth and James I. Married Catherine, daughter of Sir Henry Knevit and widow of Henry. Lord Paget, by whom he had a son:

I. Sir Henry Cary, Knight of Beckenhamstead, who was elevated to the peerage, Nov. 10, 1620, as Viscount Falkland. He was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1622 and continued in office until 1629. He married Elizabeth, only daughter of Sir Lawrence Tanfield, Chief Baron of the Exchequer and had issue:

- I. Lucius Cary, killed at Newberry, Sept. 12, 1643.
- II. Lawrence Cary, killed under Sir Charles Corte in 1642.
- III. Edward Cary, died young.
- IV. A son who became a priest, known as Father Placid.
- V. Patrick Cary, b. in Ireland during his father's Viceroyalty. He married Susan, daughter of Sir Francis Uvedale, and left a son, Edward Cary, who married Anne, daughter of Charles, Lord Lucas of Sheffield, and by her (who married, second, Lord Archibald Hamilton) left at his decease, in 1792, a daughter, Frances. Married John Villers, Viscount Grandison; and a son, Lucius Henry Cary, who succeeded as sixth Viscount Falkland.

The first Sir Henry Cary, Viscount Falkland, died in 1633, and was succeeded by his son Lucius Cary, second Viscount Falkland, who was the famous cavalier of history. He was born 1610 at Burford, and was taken into Ireland by his father in 1622. He fell at Newberry, September 20, 1643.

The Carys of Cockington and Torr Abbey suffered severely by the execution of Charles, for they were consistent royalists and therefore suffered the confiscation of their property.

Sir Henry, son of Sir George Cary, in 1654 fled with his family to Virginia. He returned to England after the restoration, but Prince, in "the Worthies of Devon," says that he died in poverty and his children were scattered. Those of his children whose births were inscribed in the records of Cockington are: Grace, b. 1640; Edward, b. 1642; Henry, b. 1643; Hastings, b. 1652.

John Cary, of Cockington and Torr Abbey, an officer in the Austrian Army, living in Vienna, June 18, 1845, is son of John Cary, of Cockington and Torr Abbey, who was directly descended from Sir Henry Cary, son of Sir George Cary, of Cockington Sheriff of Devon in 1633 (8th Charles I). This is the Henry Cary who emigrated to Virginia after the death of King Charles and the consequent loss of his property. Mr Cary, of Vienna, says the descendants of this Henry Cary are scattered over the whole world and are very numerous.

The heirs-at-law occupy at the present time the estates of Cockington and Torr Abbey.

CARY GENEALOGY

The first of the name on record was Adam Carye, of Carye Castle in Devon, England, Esq., who lived in 1208 and married Amy, daughter of Sir William Trewit, Knight. The Devonshire Herald's Visitations of 1620 gives fourteen generations of his descendants. His grandson's great-great-grandson was Sir John Carye, Knight, Chief Baron of the Exchequer in the reign of King Henry IV, who was banished into Ireland for political offenses. His son Sir Robert Carye was a favorite of King Henry V. "In his time came out of Aragon a lusty gentleman of England, and challenged to do fettes of arms with any English gentleman without exception. This Robert Carye hearing thereof, made suite forthwith to the Prince, that he might answer the challenge. . . . At the time and day prefixed both parties met and did perform sundrie fettes of arms, but in the end Robert did give the foils and overthrow the Aragon Knight, disarmed and spoiled him. This so well pleased the Prince that he received him into great favor, caused him to be ~~the Prince that he~~ restored to the most part of his father's lands and willed him, also, for a perpetual memorie of his victorie, that he should henceforth give the same arms, as the Aragon Knight, which both he and all his successors to this day enjoyed which is -- Argent, on bend sable, three roses argent -- for before they did bear Gules chevron entries, three swans argent." (Ref. Visitation of Devon, "1620.")

The arms of the Carys of Bristol and Virginia are identical with those of Sir Robert Cary, of Devon, just referred to. There is a tradition in Virginia that Sir Henry Cary, Knight, a Royalist leader, who went into exile after the defeat of Charles I, came to Virginia and some of the descendants of Miles have claimed descent from him.

Descended from Adam Carye, about the tenth generation, was:

William Cary, Lord Mayor of Bristol, was born about 1490. He was made Sheriff of Bristol in 1532 and Mayor in 1546, and was buried in St. Nicholas Parish, Bristol, March, 28, 1572. His will was proved June 10, 1572. He married twice and by his first wife had issue: Richard Cary, of Bristol, and William Cary, of London. He also had a daughter, Agnes, married in 1543 to Humphrey Cooper and afterwards to Thomas Dickinson, and Anne married to William laey. By his second wife, William Cary had Richard Cary, (the younger), who died s.p. in 1569.

Richard Cary (the elder), son of William, was a merchant of Bristol, buried at St. Nicholas, Bristol, June 17, 1570. Married twice, and had issue by his first wife, Anne, seven daughters and two sons. The sons were Richard, b. 1542, and William, b. in 1550. By his second marriage to Joan, sister of Robert Haltes Chamberlain, of Bristol, he had five daughters and one son, Christopher Cary, who was sheriff of Bristol in 1612. He had a son Richard, b. in 1591 and d. June 4, 1591. There is nothing of record concerning Richard, the eldest son. Richard Cary, Senior, made his will in 1570, which was proved at London the same year.

William Cary, merchant of Bristol, Mayor of Bristol, baptized at St. Nicholas Church, October 4, 1550; Sheriff of Bristol, 1599; Mayor 1611, buried at St. Nicholas, March 1, 1632; married three times. By his first wife, Elizabeth, he had three children:

I. William Cary, b. 1576; d. 1638, leaving two sons, Joh, b. 1617, and William, b. 1629.

II. Richard Cary.

III. John Cary.

By his second wife, Alice Goodwin, he had four sons and two daughters:

I. Walter Cary, b. 1588; d. 1634, leaving issue.

II. Robert Cary, b. 1589, left two daughters, b. 1619 and 1620.

III. Thomas Cary, b. 1586. Married Joan Wilner; left a son, Walter, b. 1646.

IV. James Cary. Married Rlner Hockins and moved to Charleston, Massachusetts, 1639; left a son, Jonathan, father of Samuel, b. 1683; d. 1740.

By his third wife, Mary, daughter of Gregory Lewellyn, of Somerset (his second wife died 1623), he had an only son, Henry, b. 1625. William Cary died 1632 and ^{eighty-two} years of age on March first of this year.

John Cary, of Bristol, third son of William Cary, was baptized at St. Nicholas, April 10, 1583. Married Alice, daughter of Henry Hobson, Alderman, and Mayor of Bristol, and his wife, Alice, daughter of William Davis. By her he had four sons and three daughters, namely: Henry, Matthew, Richard and Miles, the latter born in 1620. The daughters were: Alice Cary; married, first, Thomas Hagman; second, William Payne. Honre Cary and Mary Cary.

John Cary, his wife and children were all living at the death of Henry Hobson, in 1625, and were residents of the City of Bristol. Miles Cary emigrated to Virginia.

Richard Cary, of Bristol, second son of William Cary, was baptized at St. Nicholas, August 1, 1579. Married (in 1606) Mary, daughter of Richard Shershaw, of Abingerenry, Monmouthshire; d. 1662. He had eight sons and ten daughters and was buried at St. Nicholas Church 1644. He was succeeded by his only surviving son, Shershaw Cary.

Shershaw Cary, merchant of Bristol, baptized in St. Nicholas, April 16, 1615. Married, first, Mary, daughter of John Scrope, of Castle Cowbe, Wiltshire, by whom he had three children, all sons. He died 1651. He married, second, Mary, daughter of Hugh Yeo, of Bristol, by whom he had one son, William, who died young. His wife died January 1681, at Lisbon, Portugal.

It is well here to correct some statements regarding the Cary family in "American Family Antiquities," by Wellesly, presenting some facts which can be substantiated by the records of Warwick Co., Va.

In September, 1851, Mr. Eggleston found on a farm called "Penalls," near Warwick Inn, then occupied by Mr. Lucas, a dilapidated tombstone in five fragments. Putting the pieces together, it was found to bear a coat-of-arms and the following inscription:

Here lyeth ye body of Miles Cary, esq., Only son of John Cary and Alice his wife, Daughter of Henry Hobson of ye city of Bristol. Alderman, he was born in ye city and departed this life ye 10th day of June 1667, about the forth-seventh year of his age, leaving four sons and three daughters (viz:) Thomas, Ann, Henry, Bridget, Elizabeth, Miles, and William.

The Will of "Myles Cary" (recorded in Book A, p. 448, June 21st, 1687) corroborates the statement of the epitaph. The coat-of-arms of the original colonist is represented on articles handed down from early days, with the motto: "Sine Deo Careo."

First American Generation in Virginia

1. Miles Cary, Esq., b. 1620, d. 1667, came to Virginia 1640 or "1646," and settled in Warwick Co., where he married Anne, daughter of Thomas Taylor, one of the earliest settlers. He lived on an estate known as "Haggle Swamps," obtained from his father-in-law, Capt. Taylor, which he devised to his son, Thomas Cary. He mentioned in his will two houses in England, presumably in Bristol, one in Baldwin Street the other in St. Nicholas Street, to be sold for the benefit of his daughters. He owned two thousand acres of land, well stocked; numerous slaves, a mill and a store. His children were born in 1645 to 1666:

2. I. Thomas Cary, b. after 1645. Married Anne Milner.
3. II. Anne Cary.
4. III. Henry Cary, b. 1650; d. 1720.

Fourth Generation

IV. Col. Archibald Cary (Henry, Henry, Miles), of Amphill, b. January 24, 1780; d. September 1786, aged sixty-six years. He was a sterling patriot of the Revolution, and was a member of the Virginia Convention of 1776. He was nicknamed "Old Iron," whether from his extreme patriotism and as a sterling fighter in the Revolution, or from the fact that he had an iron furnace at the "Falling Creek," on the same site of the one once established by Colonel Berkeley who, with his men, were murdered by the Indians in 1622. Colonel Cary's mills were burnt by Parleton's troops during the Revolution. He commanded a regiment during the Revolution, and was also president of the first State Senate. He married (May 31, 1744) Mary Randolph, b. at Curl's Neck, about 1727, daughter of Richard Randolph (son of William Randolph and Mary Isham) and Jane, daughter of John Polling, of Bollingbrooke, Chesterfield Co., Va. Archibald Cary and his wife, Mary Randolph, had issue:

- I. Anne Cary, b. Feb. 1745. Married (Nov. 18, 1761) Thomas Mann Randolph, of Tuckahoe, Goochland Co., Va., who was the father of Governor Thomas Mann Randolph, of Edge Hill, Albemarle Co., Va. (See Randolph, of Tuckahoe.)
- II. Mary Cary, b. July 1747; d. Aug. 1748, infant.
- III. Jane Cary, b. Feb. 12, 1751. Married (1768) Thomas Isham Randolph, of Dungeness, Goochland Co., Va. (See Randolph.)
- IV. Sarah Cary, b. Feb. 23, 1753. Married (1773) Mr. Polling.
- V. Elizabeth Cary, b. April 1755. Married (about 1775) Richard Kincaid.
- VI. Henry Cary, only son, b. March 2, 1756; d. May 17, 1758.
- VII. Mary Cary (No. 2), called Polly, first wife of Major Carter Page, of "The Fork," Cumberland Co., Va.
- IV. Col. Wilson Miles Cary (Wilson, Miles, Miles), of "Ceelys" and Carrysbrooke, b. 1733; d. 1817. Married (1775) Sarah, daughter of Hon. John B. Blair, 1759, President of the King's Council and nephew of Commissary Blair. Sarah was b. 1739; d. 1799. Issue:
- I. Wilson Cary, of Richmond and Richneck, b. 1760; d. 1793. Married Jane B., daughter of Dabney Carr and a niece of Thomas Jefferson.
- II. Sally Cary, b. 1762; d. 1779. Married (1778) Captain Thomas Nelson, of the American Army, b. 1750 at Yorktown, York Co., Va., and removed to "Bears Spring," Hanover Co., Va. There was only one child as far as known, viz:
- I. Wilson Cary Nelson, b. 1776, at "Bears Spring," Hanover County, Va. Married, but the name of his wife is unknown. Issue:
- I. Catherine Nelson. Married (1831) Chaires Page, of Hanovertown, Hanover Co., Va.
- II. Lucy Nelson. Married (1833) John F. Page, of same place.
- III. Miles Cary, b. 1766. See Virginia Gazette, April 21, 1774.)
- IV. Judith Cary (William, William, Miles). (See Eggleston Excursus No. 50.)

Fifth Generation.

V. Mary Cary (Archibald, Henry, Henry, Miles, Miles), b. December 4, 1766; d. January 26, 1797. She was buried at Presquiste on James River Virginia. She married Major Carter Page at Tuckahoe, Goochland Co., Va., April 12, 1783; he died 1825; son of Hon. John Page, of Gloucester Co., Va., and Jane Byrd, his wife.

According to the Virginia "Historical Register" his name appears in the list of students who left the College of William and Mary, in 1766, to join the American army. Carter Page rose to the rank of Major, and served as aid-de-camp to General Lafayette during the campaign in Virginia against Cornwallis.

Mary Cary and Carter Page had issue:

- I. John Cary Page, eldest, b. at "The Fork," Cumberland Co., Va., May 9, 1784; removed to Union Hill, same county. Married (Oct. 12, 1808) Mary Anna Trent.
- II. Henry Page, b. at "The Fork," Sept. 29, 1785; removed to Kentucky. Married (Dec. 23, 1813) Jane B. Deane.

- VIII. Mary Isham Page, b. Dec. 30, 1794; was burned to death in the Richmond Theatre, Va., Dec. 26, 1811. Her name is inscribed on the monument erected there (site of the present Monumental Church) to their memory.

V. Wilson Cary (Wilson, Wilson, Miles, Miles), of Richneck, b. 1760; d. 1793. Educated at William and Mary College, 1776, member of the House of Delegates 1786. Married Jane B., a daughter of Dabney Carr, a niece of President Jefferson. Issue:

- I. Wilson Jefferson Cary, b. at Carrysbrooke, Fluvanna Co., Va.
- II. Miles Cary, b. 1789; d. 1827.
- III. Sarah Cary. Married William Newson.

Sixth Generation.

VI. John Cary Page (Mary Cary, Archibald, Henry, Henry, Miles), of Union Hill, Cumberland Co., Va., eldest son and child of Major Carter Page, of Willis Fork, same county, Va., and Mary Cary, his first wife, was b. at the last named place May 9, 1784; d. at Union Hill, May 14, 1853. He was a very handsome man of powerful frame and fine proportions, standing six feet four inches in height. In his face and expression he very much resembled his grandfather, Col. Archibald Cary. Even in his later years was a strong family resemblance in his face to Col. Cary's portrait. Though he commenced life at fourteen years of age as a poor office boy, in a store in Richmond, Va., he accumulated a large fortune before his death. All his children were born at Locust Grove, Cumberland Co., Va. It is about one mile from "The Fork." To his two daughters, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Hobson, he gave the Locust Grove property, and it was bought from them about 1840 by Thomas Page, their half uncle. John C. Page married (October 12, 1808) Mary Anna, daughter of Dr. Alexander Trent, of Barley Hill, Cumberland Col, Va. She died January 10, 1877, aged eighty-six. They had issue:

I. Lavinia Anderson Page, b. at Locust Grove, Cumberland Co., Va., June 20, 1809. Married (1832) Dr. Edward Fisher, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, at Staunton, Va. Their six children were given in Ambler Genealogy, Volume I.

II. Mary Anna Page, b. May 26, 1811. Married (1845) John Daniel, Esq., of Broomfield, Cumberland Co., Va. He died 1850, leaving two children:

I. Lucy Daniel. Married (1869) Francis Kinckel, of Lynchburg, Va. They have several children.

II. Anna Daniel. Married (1870) Lewis Randolph, of Edge Hill, Albemarle Co., Va.

III. Virginia Randolph Page, b. Aug. 17, 1813. Married (1833) Thomas Hobson, of Powhatan, Co., Va.; who died 1850.

IV. Eliza Trent Page, b. Oct. 19, 1815; d. single Sept. 16, 1838.

V. Ellen Cary Page, b. June 19, 1817; d. single May 19, 1837.

VI. Alexander Trent Page, eldest son, of Cumberland Co., Va., b. Nov. 21, 1819; d. April 4, 1845.

VII. Mary Willis Page, b. Jan. 18, 1822. Married (1843) Rev. William H. Kinckel, of the Episcopal Church, Lynchburg, Va.

VIII. Archibald Cary Page, b. April 22, 1824; d. 1871, at Spring Hill, Goochland Co., Va. He married first (1846), Lucy Trent; second (1853), Lizzie Trent; third (1859), Eliza Harrison, Richmond, Va.

IX. Carter Page, b. March 25, 1826; d. May 31, 1826.

X. Harriet Randolph Page, b. April 15, 1827. Married (1857) D. Coupland Randolph, of Richmond, Va.

XI. John Cary Page, Jr., b. Locust Grove, Cumberland Co., Va., Feb. 22, 1830; removed to Auburn, same county. He married, first (1852) Nellie Eppes.

VI. Henry Page (Mary Cary, Archibald, Henry, Henry, Miles), of Todd Co., Kentucky, second son and child of Major Carter Page, of "The Fork," Cumberland Co., Va., and Mary Cary, his first wife, was b. at the last named place, September 29, 1785; d. Kentucky 1845. He was educated at William and Mary College, and in the catalogue of which institution his name appears in the alumni list for 1804. He lived first near Ga Ira, Cumberland Co., Va., where all his children were born. He removed to Kentucky about 1841. Married (December 25, 1841) Jane B. Deane, and had issue:

I. Mary Cary Page, b. Oct. 27, 1814. Married (Dec. 25, 1840) Rev. George Wofhall.

II. Thomas Deane Page, b. July 27, 1816; d. Jan. 31, 1864. Married (1846) Isabella Catlett.

III. Carter Page, b. May 4, 1818. Married, first (Dec. 14, 1845), Betty Byers; second (Jan. 6, 1853), Sarah Bell Miller.

IV. Eliza Wallace Page, b. July 2, 1820; d. June 30, 1872. Married (1851) Jonathan Clark Temple.

V. Rev. James Jellis Page, b. July 7, 1822. Married (Dec. 16, 1851) Virginia Newton.

VI. Anne Catherine Page, b. Jan. 13, 1825; d. 1878. Married (1850) Dr. Charles A. Williams.

VII. Martha Bell Page, b. at Ca Ira, Cumberland Co., Va., Feb. 17, 1827; unmarried.

VI. Dr. Mann Page (Mary Cary, Archibald, Henry, Henry, Miles), of Turkey Hill, Albemarle Co., Va., sixth child of Major Carter Page, of "the Fork," Cumberland Co., Va., and Mary Cary, his first wife, was b. at the last named place, October 26, 1791; d. at the first named place, May 15, 1850.

He was educated at Hampden-Sidney College, Va., and afterwards graduated in Medicine at Philadelphia, 1813. (Medical Diploma, Page Family, p. 108-9.) Dr. Mann Page commenced the practice of medicine in Richmond, Va., but after his marriage he retired to his wife's estate, called "Turkey Hill," Albemarle Co., Va. The estate, consisting of three thousand seven hundred acres of land, was a part of the Castle Hill estate, owned by Hon. Francis Walker, but which originally belonged to Meriwether. On Friday, November 5, 1824, a dinner was given to Gen'l Lafayette in the rotunda of the University of Virginia, by ex-President Thomas Jefferson. Dr. Mann Page was one of those present. He married (December 12, 1815, at Richmond, Va.) Jane Francis, eldest child of Hon. Francis Walker, of Castle Hill, Albemarle Co., Va., and Jane Byrd Nelson, of Yorktown, Va., his wife. They had issue:

I. Maria Page, b. in Richmond, Va., Dec. 1816; d. unmarried at "Turkey Hill," June 15, 1837.

II. Elia Page, b. Castle Hill, Albemarle Co., Va., Sept. 18, 1818; d. unmarried at "Turkey Hill," Nov. 14, 1882.

III. Francis Walker Page, b. Nov. 17, 1820; d. July 12, 1846. Married (Sept. 4, 1844) Anna E. Cheesman.

IV. Carter Henry Page, b. Nov. 21, 1822. Married (1857) Lella Graham.

V. John Cary Page, b. 1824; d. 1826.

VI. Frederick Winslow Page, b. Nov. 20, 1826. Married (Dec. 24, 1850) Anne Kinlock Meriwether.

VII. Jane Walker Page, b. Oct. 18, 1828; d. unmarried Jan. 29, 1845.

VIII. Mann Page, Jr., b. May 1, 1831; d. Oct. 1864. Married (May 1854) Mary Anna Hobson.

IX. Charlotte Nelson Page, b. "Turkey Hill," Albemarle Co., Va., March 25, 1833; d. at Kinlock, same county, 1849, single. She is buried at "Turkey Hill."

X. William Wilmer Page, b. 1835; d. typhoid fever, Nov. 6, 1857.

XII. Dr. Richard Channing Moore Page, b. Jan. 2, 1841, at "Turkey Hill," Albemarle Co., Va.; removed to New York City in 1867. Married (April 30, 1874), in the Memorial Episcopal Church, at Westport, Connecticut, Mary Elizabeth Fitch, widow of the Hon. Richard Henry Winslow, of that place. (See "Page Family," p. 117, by Mary Elizabeth Fitch.)

Dr. Richard Channing Moore Page deserves a great deal of credit for publishing the genealogy of the Page family in Virginia and many others, from which many of my notes and records are taken, especially the following, which corroborates what is stated in Mr. Wilson Miles Cary's letter given in Chapter III, Volume I.

The following is from the "Page Family," pp. 109-112:

Dr. Mann Page was, as we have already stated, the grandson of Col. Archibald Cary, who was descended from the Carys of Cockington and Torr Abbey, England. In regard to a certain decree, said to have been made in the Court of Chancery, England, respecting the property of the Carys of Cockington, Dr. Mann Page wrote to Francis R. Rives, Esq., Secretary of the American Legation, in London, under the date of February 22, 1843. Edward Everett was at that time the American Minister to England. In reply Mr. Rives wrote from London, March 27, 1813:

Immediately after the receipt of your letter, I addressed a note to H. J. Perry, Esq., the principal Secretary to the Lord High Chancellor, asking for the desired information, which, he wrote me, it was not in his power to give, unless some clue is furnished whereby the name of the suit in court can be ascertained. A copy of his reply I herewith transmit you. I then addressed myself to George Stanley Cary, Esq., the present representative of the Carys of Follation House, who is ignorant of the Chancery decree in question. That gentleman forwarded a copy of my letter to the widow of his late cousin, the proprietor of Torr Abbey; and she turned the letter over to her cousin. Mr. Browne, who says they are not aware of any decree having been made in the Court of Chancery, respecting the property of the Carys of Cockington (who were the ancestors of the Carys of Torr Abbey and of the Carys of Follation House), nor have the family any recollection of any such matter. Entire copies of the letters of Messrs. Cary and Browne I likewise enclose you. These circumstances, it seems to me, furnish ample proof of the erroneous character of the information you have received respecting this affair....

The following is a copy of the reply of George Stanley Cary, esq., of Follation House to Mr. Francis R. Rives:

Follation House, 22 March, 1843.

Sir:- I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter this morning. I beg to state that I am totally unacquainted with any circumstances relative to the decree in chancery that your correspondent in the United States alludes to. I have forwarded by this day's post a copy of your letter to the widow of my late cousin -- the proprietor of Torr Abbey, where the family have resided for the last 170 years.

I have, Sir, the honor to be your most obedient servant.

GEORGE STANLEY CAREY.

To Francis R. Rives, Esq.

P.S. Should any further information be sought for, relative to the Carey family, it will be most cheerfully furnished by Mrs. J. Cary, who resides at No. 16 Park Road, Regent's Park.

Mr. John Cary, of Cockington and Torr Abbey, residing in Vienna, Austria, heard through Mr. Everett of this letter from Dr. Mann Page to Francis R. Rives, Esq., in regard to the Cary property, and wrote as follows:

Vienna, March 14, 1846.

Dr. Mann Page,

Albemarle County, Va., U.S. America.

My Dear Sir:- On the 18th of June last, 1845, I availed myself of the pleasure of addressing you. Obtaining, unfortunately, no answer up to this date, I much fear that the said enclosure has, on account of special reasons, been mislaid. Allow me consequently to trouble you again with these lines, at the time inclosing herewith a repetition of the letter in question, under date of 18th June last, 1845:

Vienna, June 18, 1845.

My Dear Sir:- Informed at last, unfortunately but of late, of your address, through the medium of Mr. Everett, the American Minister at London, I venture to avail myself of the pleasure of enclosing you these lines on a most important subject regarding my family. I am apprised, my dear sir, that you are the gentleman who addressed Mr. Everett, during the spring of 1843, an enclosure imparting to him information that you had received from England, to the effect that, according to a recent decree of English Chancery, a considerable amount of property had accured to the heirs of Sir Henry Cary, of Cockington, in Devonshire. My much lamented father, Mr. John Cary, of Cockington and Torr Abbey, in Devonshire, was directly descended from Sir Henry Cary, who was the son of Sir George Cary of Cockington, Sheriff of Devonshire in the 8th year of Charles I. After that monarch's fallen fortunes, Sir Henry Cary emigrated with his family to Virginia; which event is well known to me from records in English history, and more so from various important documents regarding my family, copies of which have been in my possession since my infancy. As a member of the family, being my father's youngest son, and as a father, as well as in behalf of my innumerable brothers and sisters, I shall feel myself, my dear sir, much and much indebted to your extreme kindness in favouring me in short, as possible, with a few lines informing me from what source in England you gained this intelligence.

I have resided on the Continent for many years, and here in Germany for sixteen years. I was formerly in the Austrian service and at present retain the character of an Austrian officer. My brothers are dispersed in all parts of the world; which fate, my dear sir, I do not doubt you are aware, befalls the younger sons in England. By chance, unfortunately but of late, I heard indirectly of the above stated important communication. The amount of property in question, and said to be in the Court of English Chancery, is possibly leasehold property now falling in; and if this be the case, the same, instead of reverting to the present representative of my family, namely, to my nephew, Robert Cary, eldest son of my sister-in-law, Mrs. Cary, of Torr Abbey in Devonshire, on his obtaining his majority of twenty-one years, the same must evidently, after having been sold, be equally divided among us brothers and sisters.

I repeat again and again, my dear sir, how much and much I shall feel myself indebted to your extreme kindness if you will impart to me the source in England from which you gained your information regarding the matter, and also whether the property in question is personal or leasehold now falling in.

I gained information of this important event in the spring of 1833. My sister, who is at present married in Hungary, was on a visit to us here in Vienna at that time. One day during the month of April, 1833, she received from my mother-in-law, Mrs. John Cary, a letter which by chance fell into my hands.

In this letter she stated that my sister-in-law, Mrs. Cary, of Torr Abbey, had received, some days since, a most strange letter from the American Minister in London, stating that a member of the Cary family in the United States had heard that by a late decree of English Chancery a large amount of property had accyled to the heirs of Henry Cary (son of Sir George Cary, of Cockington), and that the said property was leasehold property then falling in. Subsequently I addressed a letter on the subject to Mr. Edward Everett, American Minister in London, and he confirmed the statement communicated to my sister by my mother-in-law. Moreover, Mr. Everett addressed a letter on the subject to my sister-in-law, Mrs. Cary, of Torr Abbey, and he intimated to me her answer, stating that she was not aware of the existence of any such property, nor could she obtain any information respecting it, unless the date and the name of the decree in question were known.

I repeat again and again, my dear sir, that I shall feel myself truly much indebted to your extreme kindness in forwarding to me as soon as possible information regarding this important subject.

At the same time I should feel myself much obliged to you, if you could forward to me the addresses of certain members of my family, residing in the State of Virginia, who are descendants of Sir Henry Cary, of Cockington and Torr Abbey, in Devonshire.

Trusting on a speedy answer, I remain, my dear sir, your most sincere and thankful friend.

John Cary
Of Cockington and Torr Abbey

I do not remember the origin of the statement that there had been a decree in the English Court of Chancery regarding the Cary property. No such decree has been heard of by those who were certainly in a position to have known it, had it really ever been made. There is strong reason to suspect that it was merely a quick advertisement in some newspaper by a so-called law firm which made a business of swindling credulous people about such matters. (Mann Page, M.D.)

HOWARD CARY POUND SHOT

London, May 7.--The death of Howard Cary, of New York, who was found on May 4 shot dead in his bed at a Kensington boarding house, is being investigated by the coroner. Seemingly it is a case of suicide.

Cary arrived here May 2, and was staying at the boarding house with his cousin, Lord Fairfax. The latter testified today at the inquest that he and Cary dined and went to the theatre together on May 2. Cary seemed to be quite cheerful.

Other witnesses testified to finding Cary dead with a revolver grasped in his right hand and a bullet wound in his right temple. He was dressed in evening clothes, and there was no sign of a struggle in the room.

The doctor who made the post-mortem examination said he found a bullet flattened behind the left ear. It was certainly a case of suicide, he thought.

The coroner said that he desired to make further inquiries before the jury rendered its verdict. The inquest was adjourned.

Howard Cary was a son of Mr. Clarence Cary, of 17 East Fifty-fourth street, New York. He was 24 years old and a graduate of Harvard University. No reason for his death can be furnished by his relatives.

The young man sailed from New York three weeks ago. Lord Fairfax, his cousin, with whom he made his home while in London, was a resident of New York City for several years before assuming his title.

Guy Fairfax Cary, a brother of the dead man, says that he does not believe Howard committed suicide, since he had ample means when he left here, and was then, seemingly, in the best of health and spirits.

Cary's friends scout the idea of intentional suicide. They say the young man was perfectly happy the night before his death, and that he had no financial or other troubles. They believe his death was accidental.

While Mr. Cary never visited Baltimore, he was well and favorably known by a large circle of friends whom he met in New York frequently. He was also connected with some of the most prominent families in Baltimore City, among whom is Mrs. Brent Keyser and Mrs. Tunstall Smith, who are his second cousins, and Mr. Wilson Cary, who is a first cousin. His relatives are both shocked and surprised at the idea of his committing suicide, as he was a man of considerable means, youth and health, and had no apparent reason for the act.

Word was received by Mrs. Smith yesterday from relatives of Mr. Cary in New York, stating that Mr. Cary had died suddenly, but it did not mention suicide. His friends and relatives here are under the impression that some mistake must have been made, probably in transmitting the dispatch, as they can absolutely give no reason why Mr. Cary should take his own life.

- VIII. Constance Cary (Archibald, Wilson Jefferson, Wilson, Wilson, Wilson, Miles, Miles), b. April 25, 1846, Fairfax Co., Va.; educated by private governesses; lived in Richmond, Va., during the war between the States. It was she who arranged the poem of "My Maryland" to the music of a German air. She then went abroad with widowed mother to complete her studies in music. Has travelled in Europe, Asia, Africa, and spent much time in London, Paris, and other capitals. She has written extensively and her books have been read by the best and most cultivated people of the United States. She is known at home and abroad as one of our best writers of high-class fiction. Some of her books are: "Golden Rod," "An Idyl of Mt. Desert," "Woman's Handiwork," "Old Fashion Fairy Books," "A Son of the Old Dominion," "Good Americans," "A Triple Entanglement," "A Russian Honeymoon" (play adapted from the French), "Little Comedies for Amateur Acting," etc., etc. In 1867 she married Mr. Burton Harrison, b. July 14, 1838, New Orleans, La.; d. March 29, 1904, at his home, 1712 N. Street, Washington, D. C. The funeral services were held at Christ Church, Alexandria, and the interment was at Ivy Hill, Fairfax Co., Va.

Mr. Harrison was a prominent attorney of New York and Washington. He had been ill for several weeks, but his condition was not considered critical until the Friday before his death, when Dr. Janeway, of New York, was summoned and announced that there was no hope of his recovery.

Mr. Harrison was born in New Orleans, July 14, 1838. At seventeen he entered Yale University and graduated with high honors in 1859. He accepted the professorship of mathematics and astronomy of the University of Missouri, which position he held until the outbreak of the Civil War, when he resigned to enter the Confederate Army. Before joining a regiment he received a letter from Jefferson Davis, summoning him to Richmond to accept a position of private secretary to the President of the Confederacy.

He remained as a member of Mr. Davis' household throughout the war. After Mr. Davis' capture Mr. Harrison was incarcerated in the Old Capitol prison at Washington and later transferred to the prison arsenal. He was finally placed in solitary confinement at Fort Delaware. In 1866 he was released through the influence of Hon. Francis P. Blair. He went abroad and upon his return entered the law offices of ex-Judge Fullerton, and a year or two later began the practice of his profession before the New York bar. He was married to Constance Cary of Virginia in 1867.

Mr. Harrison was always actively interested in politics, but was averse to holding public office. During the second administration of Mr. Cleveland he declined the appointment of Ambassador to Rome, and subsequently that of Assistant Secretary of State. At one time Mr. Harrison served as secretary to Mayor Wickham, of New York and in that capacity was instrumental in the prosecution of the Tweed ring. He was a member of the New York Bar Association, the University and Century Clubs and other leading organizations of New York.

Mr. Burton Harrison and Constance Cary had issue:

- I. Francis Burton Harrison, b. 1873, in New York City. Married (June 7, 1900) Mary Crocker, of San Francisco.
- II. Archibald Clay Harrison, of New York.
- III. Fairfax Harrison, of Washington, D. C.

 - I. Fairfax Cary Marshall.
- Col. Cary married, second, Lily McPhail and had issue:
 - III. Lucius Cary.
 - IV. Lillas Blair Cary, sponsor for Virginia at Confederate Reunion at Louisville, Ky., June 1905. Miss Jennie McPhail Talcott, of Richmond, Va., was her maid of honor. Miss Cary was educated by tutors, and although a native of Richmond, she was reared on the most part at historic "Roanoke," the seat in Charlotte Co., Va., of John Randolph, then owned by her father.

NINTH GENERATION

IX. Francis Burton Harrison (Constance Cary, Archibald Cary, Wilson, Wilson, Wilson, Wilson, Miles, Miles), b. December 18, 1873. Married (June 7, 1900) Miss Mary Crocker, daughter of the late Charles F. Crocker, of San Francisco, under whose will the daughter received a large fortune. The marriage took place at the country home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, at Tuxedo.

Representative Francis Burton Harrison, who received the nomination for Lieutenant Governor at the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga, September 1904, is one of the youngest men to be named for such a high state office.

Mr. Harrison was born in New York City, December 18, 1873. In 1895 he was graduated from Yale, and two years later he received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the New York Law School. He took an active interest in the Democratic affairs of his district. Last year he received the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Thirteenth New York district and was elected (July 1905). Mr. Harrison served with distinction in the Spanish-American War, first as a private in Troop A and afterward as captain and assistant adjutant-general of the United States Volunteers. He is a member of a dozen prominent clubs of New York and Washington and is vice-president of the McVickar Realty Company.

Francis Burton Harrison and Mary Crocker have issue:

- I. Virginia Randolph Harrison, b. Oct. 27, 1901.

The following account of Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison's death is copied from the Baltimore Sun:

KILLED UNDER AUTO.

New York. November 25th, 1905.--Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of former Congressman Francis Burton Harrison of New York, was killed today by the overturning of an automobile, in which she was riding with a party of friends from San Francisco. The car was running down a steep hill in Long Island City, when a break in the steering gear caused the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence I. Scott, of San Francisco, and Charles T. Crocker, also of San Francisco, a Yale student and brother of Mrs. Harrison, were injured. Mr. Scott suffered a fractured rib and is in a serious condition. His wife was knocked senseless, but later revived. Mr. Crocker was bruised and the chauffeur slightly hurt. Mrs. Harrison's neck was broken.

Mrs. Harrison was Miss Mary Crocker, daughter of the late C. F. Crocker, of San Francisco. She was one of the three children who divided a fortune of $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 left by her father.

Today's automobile ride was part of Mrs. Harrison's program in entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Scott, who were intimate friends of the Crocker family, and who came here recently on a visit. The party was riding from New York to Hempstead Colony, Long Island, and it was about noon when the accident occurred.

LAUGHTER TURNED TO GRIEF

Mrs. Scott told the details of how the merry party in the midst of laughter from Mrs. Harrison were without warning hurled sharply from the road and thrown into a ditch, two of them rendered unconscious and pinned under the heavy machine. The automobile had just started down what is known as Thompson's Hill. This place is a favorite speedway for automobiles.

As the car began to glide swiftly down, Mr. Scott and Mr. Crocker were examining a road map, while Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Scott were talking together and laughing. The chauffeur, Mrs. Scott said afterward, turned about in his seat and remarked that something was wrong with the steering gear.

PLUNGED INTO A DITCH

The next instant the machine swerved sharply. The chauffeur's frantic efforts to guide it back into the road were fruitless and the car plunged toward a ditch at the side of the road, with a telegraph pole looming directly in its course. It struck the pole in a glancing blow and then toppled into the ditch.

Mrs. Harrison was thrown under the machine, her head being pinned down by the heavy vehicle. She was unconscious, and it was afterwards found that her neck had been broken. Beside her, also pinned down by the car, was her brother, but he was not severely injured and was able to free himself from the car.

The other three -- Mrs. Scott, Mr. Scott and the chauffeur -- had been thrown clear of the machine. Mrs. Scott was hurled across the ditch, landing 10 feet beyond, and lay senseless where she struck. Her husband, although still conscious, was unable to move for some time.

The first persons to realize the terrible situation were Mr. Crocker and the chauffeur, who tried to free Mrs. Harrison and found that they could not lift the machine. Mr. Scott, with a broken rib, also joined them, but still the machine pressed upon the unconscious woman. Mrs. Scott had by this time been restored to her senses, and it was decided to send for help.

DIES ON THE WAY TO HOSPITAL

Assistance, however, was already at hand, two farm hands having seen the accident and run across the fields. Another automobile came along about the same time, and the men were able to raise the machine. Mrs. Harrison was dying when her friends lifted her up. She was hurried to St. John's Hospital in Long Island City; but she expired before reaching the institution. Later an ambulance was sent for Mr. and Mrs.

Scott, who after treatment at the same hospital were able to return to New York in a carriage.

Mr. Harrison was at his office in New York when first informed of the accident, and was told that his wife was seriously injured. He did not know of her death until he called at St. John's Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were married in 1900. At the last gubernatorial election in New York Mr. Harrison was candidate for the office of Lieutenant-Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott had been staying at the Arlington Hotel. Mr. Crocker left New Haven yesterday to come to New York for the automobile party.

Constant Ravert is the name of the chauffeur. Tonight it was reported that his shoulder had been dislocated.

Mrs. Harrison's body will be sent to San Francisco and placed in the Crocker vault.

Former Congressman Harrison was grief stricken tonight, remaining at the hospital with the body of his wife.

CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT

In explaining of the cause of the accident, it is said that the chauffeur threw off the clutch and allowed the automobile to run under its won momentum, which carried it along very rapidly. In some manner the thumbscrew worked loose on the steering gear handle, releasing a knuckle joint which allowed the driver to control the gear underneath the machine with the wheel. As soon as the steering gear was released from the wheel grip the front wheels swerved around. Then the car turned over.

This is the second accident in which Crocker has been hurt. Several years ago, while speeding an automobile in California, he collided with a bridge support and was taken out of the wreck with both legs fractured.

Mrs. Harrison was regarded as one of the best automobilists among women of her set. Frequently she drove her brother's 40-horsepower car at high speed, acting as her own chauffeur.

Since writing the above records of the Cary Family I have been fortunate to secure more information about Mary Cary, who married Joseph Selden, from William and Mary College Quarterlies, Vol. V, No. 1, July 1896, and Vol. VI, No. 4, April 1898.

Also about Mary Munro Cary, who married William S. Peachy, and Miles Cary. Married (January 1, 1797) Anne Robinson.

SELDEN FAMILY

The founder of this family in Virginia was Samuel Selden, a lawyer, who, according to a deposition in the Elizabeth City records, came to Virginia in 1699, and boarded in 1700 at Mr. Bერთram Servants'. He married Rebecca ---, "cousin and heir at law" of Rebecca Yeo, wife of John Lear, Esq. (member of the Colonial Council), widow of Col. Leonard Yeo and Col. Charles Morryson. (See Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. II, p. 385.)

Samuel Selden's will was dated May 29, 1720, and was proved at the July court following: He gave his wife, Rebecca, "Buckroe," for life, and then to his heir-at-law; to son Joseph, the plantation on Potamac creek, in Stafford County; to son John, two plantations on Black River and "Old Fields," late in the tenure of Thomas Batts; to daughter Elizabeth, £60 sterling, and to son Bartholomew and daughter Mary Milner other devisees.

Rebecca Selden's will is dated April 25, 1756, and mentions daughter Elizabeth, grandson Samuel Milner, Cary Selden, Samuel Miles, Richard and Joseph Selden, granddaughter Eliza Selden; cousin George Yeo, and son John, executors.

The will of George Yeo was dated March 15, 1742; proved April 30, 1743. He gives to his son George Arnold, merchant in London, certain tenements in the burrough of Hatherly, commonly called by the name of Madlands and Finch Parks; gives him also the plate I brought from

THE CARY FAMILY

Colonial Families of the Southern States of America.

The ancient Knightly Tribe of Cary, derived their surname from the manor of Cary, of Karl, as it is called in the Doom-day Book, lying in the Parish of St. Giles, in the heath, near Launceston.

It is recorded of Sir Robert Cary, as proof of his great valor in Arms, that in the reign of Henry V. a certain Knight Errant of Arragon, having passed through divers countries and performed many feats of arm to his high commendation, arrived in England and challenged any man of rank and quality "Make trial of his valor and skill in arms." This challenge Sir Robert Cary accepted. Between them a crude encounter and a long and doubtful combat was waged in Smithfield, London. "But at length this noble champion vanquished the presumptuous arraginis, for which King Henry V. restored under him a good part of his father's estate, of which for his loyalty to King Richard II. He had been deprived by King Henry IV., and authorized him to bear arms of the Knight of Arragon, which the noble posterity of this valorous knight continued to bear until this day." At Torre Abbey is preserved a valuable pedigree, drawn up by the Heralds College, at the order of Queen Anne Boleyn.

The lineage of the Virginia Carys has been derived from a pedigree registered in 1699 in Herald's Cottage, London, by John Cary of Bristol, England, Gentlemen, and Richard Cary, Alderman, of London, Grandson of an elder of said John. With the pedigree are filed copies of wills, and so forth, proving it. A confirmation of arms was duly granted in 1699, setting forth that the Bristol Branch of the "House of Cary," has for years borne the same arms as the Carys of Devonshire.
